FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER, EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Weimann, Acting Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a wine importer and distributor. It desires to employ the beneficiary as an instructor in Spanish wine marketing for an indefinite period. The Department of Labor determined that a temporary certification by the Secretary of Labor could not be made. The director determined a temporary need for the beneficiary's services had not been established.

On appeal, the petitioner states that the beneficiary will instruct and train a small staff in the marketing of Spanish wines. The petitioner also states that once the staff has been trained, the marketing staff will be able to function on its own and the temporary services of an instructor-Spanish wine marketing will no longer be needed.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii), defines an H-2B temporary worker as:

an alien...having a residence in a foreign country which he has no intention of abandoning, who is coming temporarily to the United States to perform other temporary service or labor if unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country, but this clause shall not apply to graduates of medical schools coming to the United States to perform services as members of the medical profession....

Matter of Artee Corp., 18 I&N Dec. 366 (Comm. 1982), as codified in current regulations at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii), specified that the test for determining whether an alien is coming "temporarily" to the United States to "perform temporary services or labor" is whether the need of the petitioner for the duties to be performed is temporary. It is the nature of the need, not the nature of the duties, that is controlling. See 55 Fed. Reg. 2616 (1990).

As a general rule, the period of the petitioner's need must be a year or less, although there may be extraordinary circumstances where the temporary services or labor might last longer than one year. The petitioner's need for the services or labor must be a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B).

The petition indicates that the employment is a one-time occurrence and the temporary need is unpredictable.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B)(1) states that for the nature of the petitioner's need to be a one-time occurrence, the petitioner must establish that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future.

The nontechnical description of the job on the Application for Alien Employment Certification (Form ETA 750) reads "instructs and trains sales representatives of wine import and distribution company on the marketing of Spanish wines in the U.S. market. Provides detailed training instructions on the viniculture, regions, classification, characteristics and qualities of Spanish wine."

The petitioner states in its letter dated October 28, 1999 that it specializes in the importation and distribution of wines from Spain. Since this is the nature of the petitioner's business, the services to be performed cannot be classified as duties that will not need to be performed in the future. Further, there is no indication on the petition when the position would terminate. Consequently, the petitioner has not established that the nature of its need for an instructor in Spanish wine marketing is temporary in nature.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. Here, the petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
